

Thematic Working Group on Regions & Communities

The Paris Agreement and the Glasgow Climate Pact emphasise the urgent need for cooperative action across all levels of governance to limit global warming to 1.5°C.

Cities and local and regional governments are the first to be impacted by climate change. They are also leading the charge when it comes to transformation, adaptation, and mitigation. It's crucial to support them for national governments to reach their targets.

MAIA is exploring the possibility of establishing a Cluster Group on this topic. The Group would comprise representatives of climate research projects and initiatives beyond Europe and selected counterparts from European projects.

The intention is to provide a new space for open exchange and friendly interaction to uncover opportunities for learning and exchange. Particularly on how certain climate research and policy aspects might be perceived, handled, and/or prioritised differently in other regions of the world.
